

Permitting & Licensing

Haley Ward takes pride in offering unparalleled Environmental Permitting and Licensing services designed to navigate the complex regulatory landscape seamlessly. Our team of experienced environmental professionals, including environmental engineers, biologists, certified soil scientists, environmental specialist, and surveyors, understand the critical importance of securing the necessary permits and licenses for your projects. We specialize in providing comprehensive support across various industries, ensuring compliance with environmental regulations and fostering sustainable practices. From initial project assessments to the completion of permitting processes, Haley Ward's experts guide you through every step, streamlining the path to regulatory approval.

We work closely with clients to identify specific requirements for their projects, addressing potential environmental impacts and formulating effective strategies to obtain the required permits. Whether you are initiating a new project, expanding existing facilities, or undergoing modifications, Haley Ward's team ensures that your environmental permitting needs are met with precision and efficiency.

Choosing Haley Ward as your partner in Environmental Permitting and Licensing services means investing in a reliably committed to your project's success. With our in-depth knowledge of regulatory frameworks and a proven track record in diverse industries, we offer tailored solutions to meet your unique needs. Trust us to navigate the complexities of environmental permitting, allowing you to focus on the core aspects of your project while ensuring compliance and sustainability every step of the way.

TYPES OF PERMITS & LICENSES

- State & Local Environmental Permitting
- Natural Resources Protection Act (NRPA)
- State Site Location of Development Act (SLODA)
- Army Corps of Engineers (ACOE) Permitting
- National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA)
- Support for CERCLA RCRA & Solid Waste Projects

